

X-axis gun servo drive

The automatic drive for each gun allows each gun to be extended individually.

In combination with the detail plane scanning gate, it allows for automatic coating of complex planes such as cabinets, boxes, which has been impossible so far, without, for example, the need to program the robot.

The program automatically generates a painting path based on the planes measured with a scanner.

ROMER